CENTAMONT

FOR DEVELOPERS

Your building, sold from the first sketch.

Centamont advises developers of new residential buildings, from pricing and the unit mix before design is final to the last closing. We take on few projects, and a founder stays on every one of them.

BEFORE LAUNCH

Pricing, unit mix, floor plans, amenities, buyer profile and launch strategy are settled with the developer before a single residence is offered in public.

Then the plan behind a building's sales: the gallery, campaigns, a dedicated project website and the team that runs the launch, under one set of rules and one stream of data.

MEASURED EVERY WEEK

Every Monday the developer receives the same one-sheet report: inquiries, tours, reservations, contracts and pricing moves, measured against the plan, with what we are changing next.

HOW AN ENGAGEMENT BEGINS

A first conversation with the partners about the site, the timeline and where design stands. Then a study of the project: financing, approvals, design team and track record. Then a written proposal for the building, with the strategy, the team and the milestones we will report against.

MARKETS

OPEN NOW	South Florida, New York City and the Hamptons
PLANNED	Los Angeles and Dallas

AN ENGAGEMENT IN SIX STEPS

01 We arrive while the building is still a sketch.
Advisory begins before the design is final, so the building is shaped around the buyer who will live there.

02 A strategy written for this building alone.
Positioning, buyer targets and campaigns designed around the project, with a founder on the account from the first meeting to the last closing.

03 Launch day, with everything already running.
The project website and search, market updates, social media and the press are live before the first reservation. A small, senior team works the launch.

04 The numbers, every week.
One weekly report, so the developer always knows where the building stands and what changes next.

05 Topped off, and still a step ahead.
As the structure rises, pricing and releases move with demand, so the last floors are priced as carefully as the first.

06 The last closing is not the last of us.
We stay in touch with every buyer who would like us to, so the next building begins with people who already know us.

Tell us about the site, the timeline and where design stands.

Write to the partners at office@centamont.com or through centamont.com/developers.

Centamont · Miami, Florida
New development and private client advisory
October 2026